

I am a flight attendant and coming from someone who's responsible for the safety y security of airline passengers onboard a comercial aircraft I can tell you that allowing cellphone use while in flight is absolutely the worst idea possible. Not just for safety reasons but for the peace and sanity of the whole cabin environment. I cannot imagine having to prepare a full cabin for an emergency landing or evacuation while everybody is on the phone calling their loved ones telling them they're going to crash or businessmen ignoring instructions while trying to close a last minute business deal. Also it would be the perfect communication tool for terrorists to use before and during a hijacking. Please DO NOT ever allow cell phone use inside an aircraft while in-flight.
